

Abstract

A data transmission system for linking multiple exercise facilities includes at least one exercise facility which has a measurement device mounted thereon for capturing data or 5 detecting, and a transmission circuit which has one end connecting to the exercise facility and other end connecting to a microprocessor. The transmission circuit connects the exercise facility and the microprocessor to form a transmission system.